

For a child in a wheelchair, simply opening a door or turning on a light switch can be a challenge. But with a trained Susquehanna Service Dog, individuals with disabilities can overcome many such obstacles to lead fulfilled lives at home and in the community.

What is "Susquehanna Service Dogs"?

A program of Keystone Children & Family Services (KC&FS), Susquehanna Service Dogs (SSD) trains Service and Hearing Dogs so that children & adults with disabilities can become more independent. SSD also provides Keystone Therapy Dogs to assist in counseling sessions, post-trauma intervention, cheer-up visits, etc.

Why does SSD need funds?

It costs about $19,000 to properly breed, raise and train a service dog, and it costs approximately $75 an hour to provide a Keystone Therapy

Thank you ...

Your participation will help to open doors for countless children and adults with disabilities!

Dog. Although SSD receives modest funding from The United Way, this Keystone program is dependent upon substantial public support to continue the life-altering work its highly skilled dogs perform every day.

How can I help?

As a company, you can help by collecting all used toner and inkjet cartridges in your on-site receptacle or one provided by Keystone. Higher Information Group or other Keystone volunteers will collect cartridges on a scheduled basis and ship them to the recycling center. The proceeds from the cartridge recycling will help fund SSD's vital mission.

Types of Qualified Cartridges

All types of cartridges are welcome for recycling, the value of which ranges from 25 cents to $22.00 each.

Recycling means everyone wins!

By participating, you and/or your company will help to ensure the mission of Susquehanna Service Dogs while protecting our fragile environment! You are also encouraged to consult your tax adviser regarding potential tax advantages.

Why empty cartridges?

Most businesses discard empty inkjet and toner cartridges. But now, thanks to Keystone's partnership with Higher Information Group, your empty cartridges can be easily recycled to generate much needed funds to support Susquehanna Service Dogs.
